No two cultures are the same. My job is to understand the effect those cultural differences have on the design of our buildings, and the way we work. Populous is a global company and our specialist skills are dispersed across the whole world. I am the conduit between the unique demands of our clients in the Asian region and the global skill base of Populous, bringing the best of our global knowledge to each project we work on." Andrew has been working in Korea for the last 12 years including leading the winning design competitions for the Incheon Asian Games stadium and the groundbreaking NC Dinos new baseball stadium in Changwon.
